DUBAI — For the second year in a row, a team of experts from various clinics based at Dubai Healthcare City (DHCC) will conduct health camps for construction workers, offering free general check-ups, eye tests and dental screenings as part of a campaign.

DHCC, a member of TECOM Investments' Science Cluster, announced its partnership with Amgen Middle East (AMGN), a business partner of DuBiotech and the world's largest biotechnology company, to launch the second edition of its mobile clinic initiative in Dubai, a media release said.

The camps will be held at Dubai Industrial City, a member of TECOM Investments' Manufacturing and Logistics Cluster, as well as Nuzul, a Dubai Properties Group accommodation for skilled labour, and Dubai Healthcare City.

To be held over a two-week period in November, the campaign aims to increase health awareness among the female and male workforce in Dubai.

Dr Ayesha Abdullah, Managing Director of TECOM Investments' Science Cluster, said: "So many of the health issues in this region are preventable through minor lifestyle changes, better public engagement on health prevention and early detection. We are delighted to be partnering with our clinics and Amgen to deliver the mobile clinic to those who can most benefit in Dubai. I do hope we can deliver free health checks at a greater frequency in the future."

Ashraf Allam, Regional Managing Director of Amgen, said: "We are very proud to sponsor the mobile clinic initiative that will touch the lives of so many employees and contribute to enhancing their quality of life. Our association with Dubai Healthcare City comes from our shared vision on safeguarding employee rights."

"I am delighted over Dubai Healthcare City's step to provide a mobile clinic at Dubai Industrial City. The initiative will ensure the wellbeing of the workers through offering a number of important health checks. We look forward to further initiatives of a similar nature on a regular basis," said Abdullah Belhou, Managing Director, Manufacturing and Logistics Cluster, TECOM Investments.

The first edition of the mobile clinic initiative in 2009 offered general health checks, consultations, as well as eye and dental screenings to over 1200 workers.

Workers to get free health check-ups

BY A STAFF REPORTER

THOUSANDS of construction workers will be provided with free health check-ups over a two-week period this month at three medical camps set up in different sites in Dubai.

The medical examinations will be carried out by a number of doctors and specialists through the second edition of a mobile clinic by Dubai Healthcare City, it announced on Saturday in a statement.

According to it, special medical camps have been set up at Dubai Industrial City, DHCC, and at accommodation for skilled labour — Nuzul.

A team of experts from various DHCC-based clinics will conduct health camps offering free general check-ups, eye tests and dental screenings to construction workers.

Dr Ayesha Abdullah, managing director of TECOM Investments' Science Cluster and executive director of DHCC, said, "The healthcare providers at DHCC will deliver their best-practices for diagnostic and medical services through the mobile clinic to improve the health of the worker's community in the city," she said.

"Most of the health issues in this region are preventable through minor lifestyle changes, better public engagement on health prevention and early detection," added Dr Abdullah.

The initiative will be conducted in tandem with the biotechnology establishment Amgen Middle East (AMGN), added the statement by DHCC, pointing out that the campaign aims to increase health awareness among the female and male workforce in Dubai.

The Kerala Youth Cultural Club, a voluntary socio-cultural organisation in the UAE will provide support to the mobile clinic through a number of volunteers who will handle the logistics of delivering mobile care and facilitate the health checks at each site, it elaborated.

The first edition of the mobile clinic initiative in 2009 offered screenings to over 1,200 workers.
